STEPHANOPOULOS: We're going to turn now to two major bills passed by the House. Jay O'Brien has details. Good morning, Jay.

JAY O'BRIEN: Good morning. In a major win for President Trump, the House overnight narrowly passing this White House request to claw back $9 billion in funds Congress already approved and, in some cases, DOGE then cut, including billions in foreign aid and slashing $1 billion from public broadcasters like NPR and PBS. President Trump celebrating in a post this morning. And, after this bill also cleared the Senate, it's now heading to his desk to be signed just before today's deadline, George.
