OMAR VILLAFRANCA: Lyons identified the shooter, who was found dead from a self-inflicted gunshot, as 29-year-old Joshua Jahn. Court records in Texas show he pleaded guilty in 2016 on a narcotics charge involving marijuana. Law enforcement was seen scouring homes in North Texas and Oklahoma linked to the gunman. The FBI pointed to a possible motive.

FBI SPECIAL AGENT IN CHARGE JOE ROTHROCK: Early evidence from rounds that were found near the suspected shooter contained messages that are anti-ICE In nature.

VILLAFRANCA: As the Trump administration has doubled down on immigration enforcement, DHS says attacks against ICE agents have increased by around 1,000 percent since the President took office, including the bomb threat just last month at this same facility. This violence may also have a chilling effect on immigrants who are pursuing legal status. [TO CEDILLO] What does this do to the migrant community in this area?

LULAC NATIONAL SENIOR ADVISER ERIC CEDILLO: Very scary. I know a number of immigrants are going to be a lot more hesitant to make these check-in, to go down to the courthouse.
