RHIANNON ALLY: It was a shocking crime, 18-year-old Sheridan Gorman, a freshman at Loyola University Chicago, was shot to death while walking with friends at a lakeside park. Tonight, an undocumented immigrant from Venezuela has been charged with her murder.

9/11 DISPATCHER: Over at the beach, on Pratt, 1045 West Pratt, we got a person shot, and it's a Loyola student.

ALLY: Official say at 1 a.m. Thursday morning, the group walked onto appear when a masked suspect emerged, dressed in black. As the group fled, Gorman was shot in the back.

LESLIE ZAMARRIPA: We should not be worried about walking to the beach and not expect to just get killed like that.

ALLY: DHS says 25-year-old Jose Medina entered the country illegally in 2023. Gorman's family from Westchester, New York, saying in a statement, "this was a violent and preventable act. We are gravely disappointed by the policies and failures that allowed this individual to remain in a position to commit this crime." David tonight, the suspect has been hospitalized with tuberculosis, and his first court appearance has been postponed, David.

MUIR: Rhiannon Ally with us tonight. Rhiannon, thank you.
