[ON-SCREEN HEADLINE: Breaking News; Suspect in Murder of Chicago Student in U.S. Illegally]

TONY DOKOUPIL: We turn now to Chicago with news on the man police say randomly shot and killed Sheridan Gorman, that 18-year-old Loyola University student last week. According to the Department of Homeland Security, he's a Venezuelan national in the country illegally with a prior warrant for his arrest tied to shoplifting charges. The victim's family saying, "we are gravely disappointed by the policies and failures that allowed this individual to remain in a position to commit this crime." The suspect is charged with, among other charges, first-degree murder.
