

ABC's Good Morning America: First Look [via Houston's KTRK]

08/11/26

3:35:08 a.m. Central

34 seconds

[ON-SCREEN HEADLINE: Texts Revealed]

[ON-SCREEN HEADLINE: Senators Released Fauci Texts on Covid Vaccine]

SOPHIE FLAY: Two Republican senators have released text messages from Doctor Anthony Fauci regarding what he said years ago about the safety of the Covid vaccine for pregnant women. Back in early 2021, the messages between Fauci and members of the Biden administration were allegedly written. Fauci is quoted saying there was a theoretical risk the vaccine could lead to a dangerous immune response. A short time later, he said, the FDA had found no red flags. The senators, who've long criticized Fauci's handling of the pandemic, say they're now reviewing more messages from Fauci's phone. The vaccine ended up being approved after studies showed it was safe.