JENNIFER WELCH: It's unbelievable that we're supposed to have three branches of government. I remember learning that in junior high school: the three branches of government and they check each other. There are checks and balances on each other. And you would have the — you know, your civic teacher would have the triangle and said, this branch will check this branch, etc., etc., and nobody is checking anybody else. They've all capitulated to money. I mean, at the core of all of this is just blatant, bloodthirsty quest for money, and the worst of the worst jump into this pot to grab at everything. And so, here's Ted Cruz kissing Trump's ass because Ted wants to be president. I mean, if we live in a country where Ted Cruz got 70 million votes, I just don't know what we would all do. But fortunately, this whole movement is wildly unpopular. I think this week we'll probably get polling in that Trump is in the 20s. What I'm fearful about all of this is, Donald Trump, if we look at the breadcrumbs he's left throughout his presidency, he talks about how he envies Netanyahu and Zelensky because they don't have elections because they're war, and I just think that he has unhinged enough and so fearful of accountability, so fearful of a narcissistic injury, a blue tsunami would reflect 100 percent on him. Nobody likes what you're doing. He can't handle that. I'm fearful that he will try to do something insane like this. And the people surrounding him — Pete Hegseth, I mean, he's the gender affirming, you know, let's give everybody more testosterone, Pete Hegseth, Benjamin Netanyahu, who sits as an equal in our Situation Room. I think they're going to be like, yeah, do it. So this is really terrifying stuff. But we must stay focused, completely focused on all of our efforts to make sure we have a massive turnout in November.

WELCH: And now let's check in and listen to some leaked audio from a GOP Congresswoman, and this woman, Stephanie Bice. She is in my district in Oklahoma. She reveals how members are fed up with Trump in a leaked video. Play the clip.

CONGRESSWOMAN STEPHANIE BICE (R-OK): We have to get over the narrative that I like this guy. So I'm, you know, vote for the Democrats because I'm telling you right now, I'm hearing it already. And what happens is that will impact me because these are two things. Two things later happen. They're going to vote for the Democrat, and they may split ticket and vote for me and a few others, or this is my bigger fear right now: people don't go vote. [SCREEN WIPE] I was at a board meeting yesterday with a group, and one of the aide's staff said to me, I'm a Republican. I'm a Republican for a long time. But I have Trump fatigue. That's a bad statement. Yeah. We're not helping ourselves today when we decide to rename Lake Ontario Lake America.

WELCH: You know, here's the thing. She won't go and say that aloud. She plays politics. Stephanie Bice is an absolute disgrace of the highest order. In her district, women that get raped do not have access to healthcare, and Stephanie Bice says nothing. Stephanie Bice couldn't race to the White House quick enough to stand up next to Donald Trump for one of his executive order show and tells. Stephanie Bice embodies the type of politician that says one thing in public and another thing in private, and that's what everybody is so sick of. My hope is that, in at least some spaces in states like Oklahoma that are Ruby Red, we can carve out some blue sanctuaries for people to live in. But Stephanie Bice is a corporate bot, paid for. If she sat down next to Donald Trump, she would never say you're not helping me by changing Lake Ontario to Lake America. She would never say that to his face ever because she's a complete coward. So, people in Oklahoma, I hope you come out in droves to turn away Stephanie Bice and her pathological lying, and then of course, we have Stephen Miller lying about immigrants on Laura Ingraham's show. Play the clip.

STEPHEN MILLER [on FNC's The Ingraham Angle, 08/28/26]: The fraud that Democrats perpetrate when they encourage your legal aliens to file fake asylum claims — did you know, Laura, the cost of adjudicating even one thick asylum claim is the same cost as providing free cancer treatment —

LAURA INGRAHAM [on FNC's The Ingraham Angle, 08/28/26]: Yeah, well.

MILLER [on FNC's The Ingraham Angle, 08/28/26]: — to one American citizen with pediatric cancer? Every single fraud they have bet, we could provide free cancer care to one American citizen.

WELCH: I just — why is he so hysterical all the time? I mean, it's just — nobody thinks for a second, Stephen, that you give a shit about kids with cancer. It's not like you get to say, 'oh, I'm — I'm a child advocate, except for all of these child — all of these children that are black and brown or might speak Spanish, I don't give a shit about them.' So, then you have no credibility when you come over and claim to be you're the child cancer savior. I mean, this is just utterly insane. But I think that's really telling as, to a lot of people that are deeply embedded in Republican politics, they're able to quantify which lives are more important because they don't believe in universal human rights. And that's the error of their entire way because we are a melting pot. And, as we become more and more and more multi-cultural, there's so many different marriages and children of people of mixed faith, mixed race. Then what do you do, Stephen? Then what do you do? Are you just important to everybody except for just the complete freaks like you and Katie Miller? I mean, this is just — it's really sad. It's really sad that we're living in a country where there's not one redeemable quality — not one — about Stephen Miller, about Donald Trump, about Stephanie Bice, about Ted Cruz, and they're running the country, and you can't find one redeemable quality. I remember when Mitt Romney ran against Obama, and I love Obama, 100 percent in the tank for Obama. Same with John McCain. I remember when he ran against Obama. Again, I was 100 percent for Obama. But there was something redeemable. There was just a slight tinge of humanity in each of them. That is gone. The Republican Party is completely the party of 1,000 percent cruelty. All gas, no brakes, let's be as mean and as horrible and as awful as we can. And the people in the cult celebrate it. And it's so depressing to see that, and then of course, more depressing shit. Pete Hegseth is paying military veterans to amplify Pentagon propaganda as all fascists do — pop this up. MeidiasTouch is reporting “the federal government is paying MAGA influencers on this website to post pro-regime propaganda. Actual paid crisis actors. Incredible reporting here.” This is what losers do. I mean, this is just — everything with them as all smoke and mirrors from their qualifications all the way down. The — there’s not — nothing, absolutely nothing redeemable about these people; even their own belief systems and the choices they make have to be artificially amplified.
